A. Branding and Logo Design Selection

City Manager Heydlauff recalled the lengthy timeline for the branding selection process which included the DDA ultimately choosing Concept B for recommendation. John Harris, a5, Inc., offered a presentation which included the goals and objectives of the new brand, research findings on what makes Charlevoix different, key messages, positioning statement, brand platform/themes, and identity concepts. Council discussed the pros and cons of Concept B at length and asked questions of Mr. Harris and the City Manager.

Mayor Kurtz opened the item to public comment.

Candice Speck wondered if there was a way to incorporate the traditional script with Concept B graphics. Councilmember Gibson agreed with Ms. Speck.

Jodi Laurent preferred the traditional script to remind everyone of the City's elegance.

Sandra Bennett felt that 'beautiful' should be part of the marketing brand.

Scott Beatty felt the Concept A was more warm and inviting and 'uncommonly beautiful' was appropriate.

The item was closed to the public.

Motion by Councilmember Hagen, second by Councilmember Gibson, to set a Public Hearing for Monday, July 3rd [at 7 p.m. in Council Chambers] to receive additional feedback.

Yeas: Perron, Gibson, Cole, Oleksy, Hagen

Green for the project for a total cost of $162,483 which included the first year performance contract. He stated that Council could opt to retain Superior Mechanical of Charlevoix to install one alternate option at a slight savings.

Mayor Kurtz opened the item to public comment. There was no comment and the item was closed.

Motion by Councilmember Perron, second by Councilmember Cole, to award the City Hall HVAC Project (excluding alternate #1) to John E. Green Company for an amount not to exceed $149,940 and award Alternative #1 to Superior Mechanical for an amount not to exceed $11,031.22.

F. Park Land Sale Protection Charter Amendment

City Manager Heydlauff recalled that at the last meeting, Council discussed draft language for an amendment to the City Charter to make it more difficult to sell or lease park and cemetery lands. This would raise the threshold of voter support necessary to sell or lease City park land. He noted that following adoption of the resolution, it would be sent to the Attorney General's office for review.

Mayor Kurtz opened the item to public comment. There was no comment and the item was closed.

Motion by Councilmember Gibson, second by Councilmember Hagen, to approve the Park and Cemetery Protection Ballot Language proposal in Resolution 2017-06-01 and authorize the City Attorney to refer the item to the Attorney General.

8. Reports & Communications

A. Public Comments

Shelly Langeweg felt that Lonnie Allen, Charlevoix Courier editor, should report the news and not comment on his feelings. She also felt that anyone who was young with a good business was being targeted. Ms. Langeweg asked whether anything would be done regarding Michigan Beach Park and she wondered who to see to get the park 'straightened out' and cleaned up.

Mayor Kurtz suggested that Ken Polakowski from the Shade Tree Commission could present his plan at a Council meeting. Councilmember Gibson noted that Council approved a management plan for the parks that they needed to follow and it may not be in line with Ms. Langeweg's vision of the park.

Mike Doherty felt that all parks are an asset and should be maintained equally. He emphasized that the beach was a 'park'.

B. City Manager Comments

City Manager Heydlauff reported on the following:

- Thanks to the Guthman Foundation for their $10,000 grant for the Bike Share Charlevoix program
- Congratulations to Mike Hodge who retired after 26 years of service with the City
- Congratulations to Joe Travers being appointed as the new EMS Director
- June 19th Council meeting will take place at the Depot
- Volunteers are needed for the July 1st Michigan Beach Playground community build

C. Mayor & Council Comments

Councilmember Perron noted that there seems that the City has a different vision for Lake Michigan Beach Park than Ms. Langeweg and Mr. Doherty and wondered if Mr. Polakowski should present his plan.

9. Other Council Business

None.

Consent Agenda

TITLE: Venetian Festival Fireworks

DATE: June 19, 2017

BACKGROUND:

The Venetian Committee is requesting permission for their annual fireworks display. The fireworks display is planned for the evenings of Friday, July 21 and Saturday, July 22. Chief Doan reviewed the application package and there are no changes from last year in the setup and size of the displays for either night. Chief Thorp has reviewed the arrangements and his crew will conduct normal preventative staging. The fireworks company used by the Venetian Festival has not changed in over a decade, and we have developed an excellent working relationship with Frank Loffredo and his staff.

NFPA 1123 of 2014 is the standard that the City must follow because we do not have a fireworks code of our own. This display meets all NFPA requirements, and exceeds the NFPA standard for minimum setbacks for both shows.

Chief Thorp and Chief Doan recommend the permit be authorized as long as representatives from the Venetian Festival understand that we will take an aggressive stance to stop the display if drifting debris or other unforeseen issues compromise safety in any way.

RECOMMENDATION:

Authorize the City Clerk to issue the fireworks permit for the 2017 Venetian Festival fireworks displays and authorize the Mayor to sign the hold harmless agreement with Colonial Fireworks Special Effects, LLC.

Authorize the Mayor to sign the contract between the City of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Venetian Festival including the payment of $15,000 to the Venetian Festival from the City of Charlevoix.

The master pyrotechnician overseeing the displays is once again Frank Loffredo, Jr., the same individual who has overseen the Venetian fireworks displays since 1999. Mr. Loffredo is the master pyrotechnician of Colonial Fireworks Special Effects, LLC/Great Lakes. I have enclosed a Summary of Experience, to confirm references you already possess relative to Mr. Loffredo. Please note that Mr. Loffredo now possesses 38 years of experience as a pyrotechnician.

In addition to the foregoing, I would like to confirm the following matters relating to this year's proposal:

- 1. As you can see from the enclosed materials, the maximum shell size for the Friday night display (July 21, 2017) is 12". A clear zone radius of 1,200 feet will be maintained, which exceeds the NFPA clear zone standard of 840 feet. The maximum shell size for the "harbor" fireworks on Saturday night (July 22, 2017) is 3". A clear zone radius of 250 feet will be maintained, which exceeds the NFPA clear zone standard of 210 feet.
- 2. St. James Marine Co. of Beaver Island, Michigan, will again be providing the barge and tug services, as they have since 2003.
- 3. There will be no manual ignition in either fireworks display. Such ignition shall be effected via computer and/or electronically.

- 4. The buoys marking the clear zone perimeters will once again be set by Irish Boat Shop, based upon data provided by the United States Coast Guard.
- 5. We will promptly provide to you an originally executed copy of the Hold Harmless Agreement, as well as the customary Certificate of Liability Insurance.

Please feel free to contact me if you should have any questions or comments.

Sincercly,

Dan Barron President

City of Charlevoix 210 State Street Charlevoix, MI 49720

Dear City of Charlevoix Council Members:

St. Mary School of Charlevoix is applying for a grant with the Grand Traverse Band of Chippewa and Ottawa Indians. Their process requires the school to have a local unit of government endorse our application. The items we have requested through the grant are the following:

- Playground structure
- Benches
- Rubber Chips
- Rubber Border Material
- Freight
- Site Prep
- Concrete
- Auger Rental
- Build Supervision
- Playground Inspection

As you know, St. Mary School is always trying to improve so we can offer parents of the surrounding communities an excellent choice in their child's education. With this grant, we would be able to provide a state of the art play structure for 2-5-year-olds, which would provide opportunities for fun, exercise, and social interaction. Being near the heart of the city many local families utilize our playground in addition to our own families. It has become a community gathering place. We would love to have a structure for younger children to play safely.

If you have any questions or need further information, please call me at 231-409-9663. Thank you for your time and consideration.

CHARLEVOIX CITY COUNCIL

All Other Actions and Requests

TITLE: Energy Assistance Fund Opt-out

DATE: June 19, 2017

PRESENTED BY: Don Swem, Electric Superintendent

BACKGROUND:

Michigan's Public Act 95 was signed into law in 2013 to create the Low-Income Energy Assistance Fund (LIEAF) within the State Treasury. This fund provides money to low income households for heating assistance. The Act requires the City to either participate in the fund or to officially opt out of participation.

To participate the City would be required to collect a surcharge of a dollar or less from each retail billing meter (but no more than one residential meter per residential site) every month and send all of the money to the State for this fund. The money is supposed to be used back in this geographic area as much as possible. The total amount collected in a year would be roughly $36,000.

The other choice is to opt out, which means the City would not collect any money and would not be a part of this fund. As a result, during the winter from November 1st to April 15th, our customers would not be eligible for emergency assistance with their utility bills from this fund, and at the same time the City would be prevented from shutting off any residential service for non-payment.

The City must make this choice whether to opt in or opt out every year at this time. For the last four years Charlevoix has opted out of this fund. One of the problems with opting in to the fund is the significant amount of work and expense it would take to code all of our customers' accounts for this surcharge, as only one surcharge can be assessed per residential site (so that people with separate garages or boat slips are not double-charged). This would have to be done manually by going through all of our accounts to code them so that they could be billed at separate rates. This would be an ongoing cost to administer.

Another item to note is that although it is impossible to predict how much money would be needed in such a fund next year, it is believed that $36,000 is more than we would ever use to help electric customers in Charlevoix, and therefore our dollars will be subsidizing other utilities and other locations rather than helping our customers.

RECOMMENDATION:

Motion to opt-out of the requirements of Public Act 95 of 2013.

Reports and Communications

TITLE: City Manager Comments

DATE: June 19, 2017

PRESENTED BY: Mark L. Heydlauff, City Manager

BACKGROUND:

The Planning Commission met Monday and reviewed a Short-term Rental Ordinance. They would like City Councils input. We are planning to have this item at one of the August meetings. As you will recall, the Planning Commission had a subcommittee study this issue throughout the winter. Sarah Lucas will be present for this discussion.

Larry Sullivan began work this week as an Interim Zoning Administrator. Larry is well known throughout the community and the county. I look forward to working with him as we plan our next approach for zoning; ideally this will be collaborative with other entities.

In the attachments to this report, you will find an article on electric shock drowning. I want to thank Michael Esposito, President of Irish Boat Shop, for bringing this to my attention. I've asked Hal Evans and Don Swem to prepare a plan for testing this summer to minimize our risks of this hazard in our Marina. Most likely, we'll bring a recommendation to you later this year on adding automatic trips to our pedestals that will cut power when a hazard is detected. This will be a costly system but as you can see in the article, the risks are significant as well. I appreciate Mr. Esposito's guidance as we look to improve the safety of our Marina.

On June 15, I had the opportunity to speak to the Lake Charlevoix Association and the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council about our efforts toward green infrastructure and responsible discharge into our lakes.

Petunia wedding will occur next week over four separate days at different points along the highway.

Following the Independence Day holiday, I'd like to schedule a training work session for Council on our transition to paperless packets. A late afternoon session would probably be preferable for our trainer from Novus Agendas. Please let me know your availability.

Troubled Waters

A new look at marinas, boatyards, and the problem of electric shock drowning

By Ashley Smith

ON JULY 4, 2012, THE FAMILIES OF 10-year-old Noah Winstead and 11-year-old Nate Lynam were celebrating together on Lake Cherokee, located in the small northwestern Tennessee town of Bean Station. The day started like any other holiday on the lake, filled with swimming, boating, and barbecuing. That afternoon, though, Noah and Nate were swimming in a marina when they received an electrical shock. Noah died instantly from electrocution, and Nate died in the hospital the next day. Several other people who jumped into the water to save the boys were injured, but survived. An investigation found that the source of the electricity was current leaking from a boat that was plugged into the marina's electrical system.

Electric shock drowning, or ESD, has gained nationwide attention over the last few years due to high-profile incidents that have led to deaths, mostly among children and young adults. Two children in Missouri died of ESD on the same day Noah and Nate lost their lives. "This has been a hard thing to process because it could have been prevented," said Jessica Winstead, Noah's mother. "People just aren't aware you can get shocked in the water like this."

A number of factors contribute to the ESD problem. Marinas, whether saltwater or freshwater, are corrosive environments that can be tough on electrical equipment. Many marinas lack ground-fault circuit interrupters (GF-CIs), devices that automatically shut off electrical power when they detect a leakage. Compounding the problem is that marinas can be something of a no-man's-land when it comes to safety inspections. While there are regulations set forth by organizations such as NFPA and the American

Boat and Yacht Council (ABYC)—including annual inspections of electrical wiring—enforcement at marinas can be rare because many communities have not designated an authority having jurisdiction (AHJ) for the facilities, said David Rifkin, founder of a Florida-based company called Quality Marine Services, which specializes in corrosion analysis and control for boats and marinas and offers marina electrical safety consulting.

"We've seen a number of cases where, if an inspection had been done every year, the problem wouldn't have deteriorated to the point where it caused an accident," said Rifkin, who has spent the last 15 years researching electric shock drowning and coauthored a 2008 U.S. Coast Guard report on the topic. He has emerged as one of the country's foremost experts on ESD, and was a copresenter on the topic at last year's NFPA Conference & Expo in Las Vegas.

Winstead successfully fought for legislation in Tennessee to require the installation of GFCIs in marinas and to authorize the State Fire Marshal's Office to conduct safety inspections of boat docks and marinas to ensure code compliance.

A complex relationship also exists between the codes and standards that apply to boats and marinas and their related electrical safety issues. NFPA 302, Fire Protection Standard for Pleasure and Commercial Motor Craft, applies to boats, while NFPA 303, Fire Protection Standard for Marinas and Boatyards, applies to the facilities that house and service motor craft. NFPA 70°, National Electrical Code®, covers electrical installations in those facilities, as do an assortment of ABYC documents. The NEC®, however, only covers new installations and does not address other issues such as maintenance and reinspection.

In light of the safety hazards that exist and the deaths that have occurred.

the committee that oversees NFPA 303 has tightened the requirements for ground fault protection in the 2016 edition of the code. The committee also debated whether to ban swimming in marinas; the proposal did not pass, but committee members say the issue remains a topic for discussion. Meanwhile, the Fire Protection Research Foundation is organizing further research into the problem of ESD, work that stakeholders hope will provide a basis for future changes to the relevant standards.

Invisible danger

Electric shock drowning can occur when dockside electrical systems, or boats connected to a dockside system, leak electrical current into the water. A number of factors affect the impact the current can have on someone in the water, including the amount of electricity, the size of the person, and proximity to the power source. Depending on those variables, a person can be killed, injured, feel a slight tingling sensation, or experience nothing at all. While ESD tends to occur primarily in fresh water, it can happen in any marina environment depending on the conditions.

Sometimes the shock alone can kill, and in other instances the shock causes paralysis, which leads to drowning—and can make ESD an elusive culprit. In the latter case, Rifkin said, an autopsy may not be able to determine that electric shock was the cause, though it may be suspected circumstantially through eyewitness reports or by shock sensations reported by rescuers and other swimmers. No public authority or organization tracks the incidents of electric shock drowning.

Given the lack of data, James Shafer began compiling an unofficial list of incidents about 15 years ago. Shafer, like Rifkin, runs a Florida marine safety consulting business, Harbor

Marine Consultants, and the two of them teamed up to coauthor the Coast Guard report on ESD, "In-Water Shock Hazard Mitigation Strategies." Rifkin has taken over the job of updating the list, which currently documents 73 incidents of known ESD deaths since the mid-1980s and another 41 near misses. Rifkin said he believes the actual number of incidents is probably higher due to many of them being misclassified as drownings.

NFPA 303 was created to protect lives and property from fire and electrical hazards in waters-edge facilities, such as marinas, boatyards, yacht clubs, and docking facilities, as well as in facilities where boats are stored on land. It does not apply to private boat docks or very large commercial facilities, but it covers almost everything in between, said Ken Bush, fire protection engineer for the Department of Maryland State Police and chair of the Committee on Marinas and Boatyards, which oversees the development of NFPA 303. Provisions apply to the construction and operation of marinas and related facilities, the maintenance of firefighting equipment and systems, electrical wiring and equipment, fire protection, and more. NFPA 303 requires annual inspections of electrical wiring at marinas and annual inspections of boats that are plugged into the marina's electrical power to check for stray currents.

The NEC also addresses marinas, and an important change in the new NFPA 303 is that users will be directed to Article 555 of the NEC for guidance on the installation of ground fault protection at marinas and boatyards. In 2011, the NEC was updated to require that marinas have ground-fault protection not exceeding 100 milliamps (mA), or 0.1 amps. If an amount higher than 100 milliamps of electricity leakage is detected, the circuit breaker trips and shuts down the power. Marinas can have several leakage sources, and the level was chosen to provide protection while minimizing nuisance trips. However, 100 milliamps could still be hazardous to someone in the water, which is why a change has been proposed for the 2017 NEC to make 30 milliamps the threshold for GFCI protection, a level that is safer for swimmers, boaters, marina workers, and others.

According to John McDevitt, a boating industry consultant, NFPA 302 technical committee chair, and NFPA 303 technical committee member, the location of that protection is also important. The NEC requires ground fault protection only at the head of the dock, he said; if a leakage above the accepted limit is detected where ground fault protection exists only at the head of the dock, the entire dock is tripped and loses power. If ground fault protection was also provided at the power pedestals that boats plug into—a pedestal can typically accommodate anywhere from one to three boats—it might be possible to isolate the problem and prevent the entire dock from losing power, McDevitt said. The distinction is important from a compliance perspective, he added.

"Boaters are not going to be pleased with marina owners if they're losing power often, which means marina owners may not be inclined to comply with any new regulations."

Although standards exist, there are a number of reasons they are not widely followed, experts say. Many municipalities have not designated an AHJ who is responsible for inspections, whether it's the fire department, the electrical inspector, the fire marshal, or code enforcement, Rifkin said. With no one in charge, inspections can be overlooked or ignored. Insurance companies do not require inspections as a condition of providing coverage to marinas, he said. Codes and standards, including the NEC, tend to not be retroactive unless they have specific retroactive requirements or recommendations built into them.

Previous editions of NFPA 303 did not specify regular testing of the ground fault devices. This has been addressed in the new edition, which specifies that inspection of ground fault protection devices will take place at regular intervals and, at a minimum, will occur annually. The standard also requires that deficiencies found during regular inspection and testing (such as damaged or inoperative ground fault protection devices or 120-volt neutral currents flowing through grounding conductors) be corrected.

According to Bush, fire officials and code inspectors have historically not been familiar with NFPA 303 and its inspection requirements. That is beginning to change, he said, in part because NFPA 303 is now referenced in standards that are more widely recognized, such as NFPA 1, Fire Code. Even so, he said, more awareness is needed.

Growing awareness

Even though code enforcement in marinas has a long way to go, national awareness about electric shock drowning is growing. Tennessee, West Virginia, and Arkansas have passed bills to enforce marina safety standards, and Kentucky is considering a bill that would ban swimming within 50 feet of marinas. In all four states, parents of children who have died from electric shock drowning have lobbied for legislation.

"I can see [these laws] taking flight in other states, but you've got to have somebody really behind it," said Winstead. "We fought. I spoke in front of the state Senate. It takes a lot for someone to say no to a grieving mother."

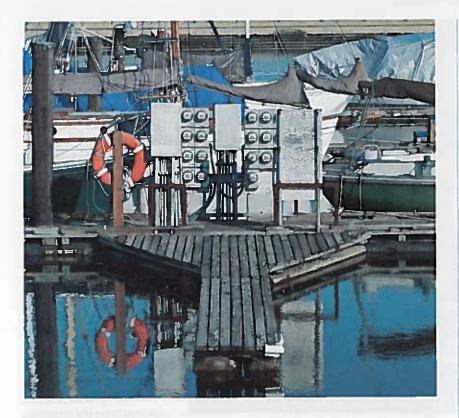

A nonprofit called the Electric Shock Drowning Prevention Association (electricshockdrowning.org) has been formed to raise awareness, and experts like Rifkin have put together training material that fire departments and inspectors can use to learn about electric shock drowning and identify the risks, as well as tips for first responders on accident scenes.

Banning swimming in marinas has been a muchtalked-about solution. The technical committee for NFPA 303 considered the idea when it drafted the revised 2016 code, but the proposal was voted down. The committee wasn't comfortable moving forward with the ban because it didn't have enough details about the size and extent of the area where swimming should be prohibited, Bush said. There were also issues related to signage at marinas notifying boaters, including the size and location of the signage. The issue will come up again the next time the committee meets, Bush said. The next edition of NFPA 303 will not be published until 2021, but the committee can also consider a tentative interim amendment, he said.

Additionally, the Fire Protection Research Foundation (FPRF) recently commissioned a study titled "Assessment of Hazardous Voltage/Current in Marinas, Boatyards, and Floating Buildings." The goal of the study, which was prepared by the American Boat and Yacht Council Foundation and published in November, was to summarize the available information about electric shock drowning and find a technologybased solution for preventing it. The study recommended that all marinas have ground-fault monitors that sense when an electric current is too high and that trip the circuit breaker. The study also evaluated various commercial products designed to do this. The technical concern focused on the appropriate trip level for this equipment-to balance the safety goal against the pos-

Education session to take a broad view of marina hazards

Electric shock drowning isn't the only problem faced by marinas and boatyards. Even so, these environments can often be unfamiliar to firefighters, electricians, and code enforcement officials. "Marina and Boatyard Protection: Unique Challenges for NFPA," an education session at the upcoming NFPA Conference + Expo, seeks to change that by informing responders, enforcers, and other stakeholders of the hazards they can encounter at marinas and boatyards.

Enforcers can be "fish out of water—they just don't know what to expect" in marina settings, said James Cote, principal of Cote Marine, a consulting, installation, and repair company, and a member of the technical committee for NFPA 303, Fire Protection Standard for Marinas and Boatyards. For example, many boats have electrical systems that could present a risk of electric shock or fire; firefighters may falsely think they're safe in the event of a fire because the marina's power has been shut off, but a boat's electrical system can continue to present a hazard. If boats in the water are still plugged into the marina's power system, current can leak from one vessel to another, or back to components of the shore power distribution system, creating additional hazards. Other dangers include fuel stations with automatic pumps—which are not permitted by code but exist nevertheless—and the sheer amount of fuel on a boat. Many firefighting practices that are safe on land may not be safe in marinas, Cote said.

The educational session will cover an array of hazards as well as NFPA requirements related to marina electrical installations, fueling stations, firefighting, and the management and maintenance of marina systems. Fire officials, electrical contractors, and code enforcement officials with marinas in their jurisdictions are encouraged to attend. FOR MORE INFORMATION, visit nipa.org/conference.

sibility of nuisance tripping that would cause the real-world implementation of the requirement to be ignored or circumvented.

However, according to Casey Grant, FPRF director, there are other protection strategies that were beyond the scope of this particular study, including addressing the electrical systems on boats themselves, not just marina docks; improved maintenance practices in marinas; and nontechnical approaches such as educational campaigns and marina signage warning of dangers. Because unanswered questions remain, the foundation has arranged a one-day planning meeting in Baltimore in August to discuss other strategies for preventing electric shock drowning and to decide whether further research is needed, Grant said.

"There's no lack of people who are concerned and want to do what's right to prevent electric shock drowning," Grant said. "That's what sets this topic apart—we sometimes have a group that's stone-walling or resistant in some way, but with this issue that's not the case. There's nobody fluffing it off and saying it's not a concern. The challenge here is identifying and implementing the research and other actions that will support realistic solutions, in the codes and standards as well as other methods."

Subject: St. Marys Fire

Hello City Council,

Although I am no longer a citizen of Charlevoix, I was concerned to see news reports of the fire at St. Mary's cement plant, and I was relieved to hear that it was contained and put out with no injuries.

http://www.petoskeynews.com/featured-pnr/no-injuries-reported-in-fire-at-st-marys-cement-plant/article_4d42c87c-4b29-11e7-b701-272eb30fa746.html

Upon reading the above report in the Petoskey News Review, I was incredibly concerned to hear that the cement plant uses an alternative fuel source of "shredded pieces of plastic."

I'm sure that St. Mary's is within the regulatory oversight for the emissions standards from this type of energy source, but I would urge the citizens of Charlevoix, and especially the representatives of those citizens, to probe into this matter. Burning plastic is incredibly dangerous for the health of nearby people. It is incredibly dirty and contributes disproportionately to the human caused climate change that is unequivocally occurring as we speak.

I write to you because I am concerned for the health of my family who remains in the vicinity of this plant, and I would like to raise the public attention of this practice of energy generation at the St. Mary's cement plant.

Thank you for your time, and I hope you share my concern.

Regards,

Nathan Golovich
